

Thank You for Your purchase of access to our "Orlando, The Beach & The Bahamas" Vacation.

When combining Florida locations remember that, if Orlando is included, Orlando MUST be visited FIRST and, if included, Daytona Beach must be visited LAST. (i.e. your vacation must be Orl then Ft Laud then Day Bch) Also, when adding a cruise to your vacation, the start date of your vacation will have to take into account the departure date of your selected cruise. This means that, since the Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines 3 Day Cruises all leave on Fridays and their 4 Day Cruises leave only on Mondays from both Port Canaveral (near Daytona/Cocoa Beach) and Port of Miami (near Ft Lauderdale). This means that, if you wanted to visit Orlando first for 5 days, you would have to start your vacation on the previous Monday if you selected a 3 Day cruise leaving on Friday or you would have to schedule your arrival in Orlando for the previous Thursday if you selected a 4 day cruise leaving on Monday. Pull out a calendar and plan carefully. Bonus locations must be taken separately and may not be combined with any other locations. Bonus locations are designed to be random mid-year getaway vacations and there must be at least 2 to 6 months between location visits.

By submission of any of the reservation request forms you signify your agreement with the following additional terms and conditions:

You hereby release the reservation processor from all claims arising out of any problem covered in this paragraph.
